Facilitating a joint approach to return and reintegration of migrants

Returning migrants with irregular status to their countries of origin in a humane manner is an important part of EU efforts to manage migration. With so many EU countries facing similar pressures, working together to explore shared solutions can help improve both the efficiency of return processes, and the quality of support offered to returning migrants.

WHO WE ARE

The European Return and Reintegration Network (ERRIN) is an initiative that facilitates cooperation between migration authorities. Operational since mid-2018, 15¹ European countries currently participate in ERRIN, with membership open to any EU Member State or Schengen-associated country.

The work of ERRIN is driven by its Member States, with activities coordinated by the Programme Management Unit (PMU) in Brussels. The International Centre for Migration Policy Development (ICMPD) is an implementing partner of the ERRIN programme, providing expertise and administrative support. The European Commission and the European Border and Coast Guard Agency (FRONTEX) are ERRIN members. ERRIN is funded through the EU's Asylum, Migration and Integration Fund (AMIF), with co-financing from participating national agencies.

The ERRIN partner institutions (EPIs) – national migration authorities – provide counselling and referral assistance to those who cannot or no longer wish to remain in Europe. This often concerns migrants who have to, or who want to leave but do not have the financial or logistical resources to do so.

The EPI can use the contracts put in place by ERRIN with in-country service providers in selected third countries. A return allowance can be provided before or after departure and the service providers work with each returnee to identify a sustainable reintegration package. This may involve support for housing, medical costs, set up a business or find a job.
